

EPISTEME: A journal of individual and social epistemology

EPISTEME is a general journal of epistemology in the analytic tradition that invites both informal and formal approaches. Among its primary “traditional” topics are knowledge, justification, evidence, reasons, rationality, skepticism, truth, probability, epistemic norms and values, and methodology. The journal devotes special attention to issues in social epistemology, including testimony, trust, disagreement, relativism, diversity and expertise, collective judgment, and the epistemic assessment of social institutions (e.g., science, law, democracy, and the media). The journal welcomes interdisciplinary approaches to epistemology that borrow methods from allied disciplines such as experimental psychology, linguistics, economics, game theory, evolutionary theory, and computer simulation studies. We do not publish purely historical work or case studies.

1. Submission of manuscripts

All submissions to EPISTEME must be made through the ScholarOne Manuscripts site: <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/epi>

Submissions should be made in Word doc format, or can be made in LaTeX format. LaTeX formatted submissions must be accompanied by a pdf version.

Papers should be double-spaced, in 12 point font, Times New Roman. Accepted papers are usually about 6,000-8,000 words long. However, we are willing to consider manuscripts as long as 12,000 words (and even more under very special circumstances). All self-identifying marks should be removed from the article itself to facilitate blind review. In addition to the article itself, an abstract should be submitted as a separate file (also devoid of author-identifying information).

Submitting an article to EPISTEME implies that it is not under consideration (and has not been accepted) for publication elsewhere.

Authors of articles published in the journal will assign copyright to Cambridge University Press (with certain rights reserved) and will receive a copyright assignment form for their signature on acceptance of the paper. Authors must obtain written permission to publish any material of which they do not own the copyright.

2. Elements of style (etc.)

1. Submissions should be in English, on consecutively numbered pages. Both American and UK spellings are acceptable as long as they adhere consistently to one or the other pattern.

2. Citations should be made in author-date format. A reference list of all works cited should be placed at the end of the article. See any issue for a guide to the appropriate style for references.

3. EPISTEME does not have a regular reviews section, so please do not send unsolicited books to either the publisher or the editor.

3. Proofs

Typographical or factual errors only may be changed at proof stage, within a given deadline. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for correction of non-typographical errors.

4. Offprints

Each author will receive a pdf offprint of their article. Print offprints may be purchased from the publisher if ordered at proof stage
