

Guidelines for submissions

Linguistics welcomes submissions of the following types: articles; squibs; book reviews; and replies. Book reviews are normally by invitation but unsolicited reviews may be accepted. Reviews are of two types: brief summaries (500–1000 words) and lengthier “Review Articles” that may cover more than one book and will be treated as Articles and thus peer reviewed. We encourage short replies to published articles. Any Replies received may be sent to Consulting Editors or others for invited commentary to appear with the Reply. All submissions should be original material neither submitted nor published elsewhere.

Address for submissions is linguistics@ua.ac.be.

Submissions should be in English with American spelling. Contributors whose native language is not English should have their manuscripts read by a qualified native speaker before submission.

Authors should obtain permission for any copyrighted material used in the submission.

Authors should submit one electronic file containing complete author affiliations, address information, and acknowledgments and two electronic manuscript files — one PDF file and one file in a common wordprocessing format (not LaTeX), preferably MSWord. No hard copies are required. All fonts used must be Unicode. Authors should be prepared to provide their special fonts (in TTF format) if necessary. Initial submissions must be anonymous: the authors' names should not appear in the text and the authors' identities deleted from the file properties. Please list all works in the References that have been cited in the text. Do not list works that have not been cited. Authors are advised to adhere as closely as possible to the Mouton de Gruyter style sheet (www.degruyter.com/journals/linguistics), especially regarding the form of Figures, Tables, citations, and the References. For Examples authors should attempt to follow the Leipzig Glossing Rules (www.eva.mpg.de/lingua/resources/glossing-rules.php).

Articles accepted for publication: Authors are required to revise their manuscripts to conform completely to the Mouton de Gruyter journal style sheet, and all examples presented in the text must adhere to the Leipzig Glossing Rules. (Please follow the links provided above). Manuscripts should be free of Endnote coding.

Refereeing: Linguistics follows the “double-blind” refereeing procedure. The identities of both the authors and the referees remain confidential. All submissions other than short book reviews are refereed.

Proofs: Authors will receive PDF page proofs for correction, which must be returned by dates determined by the publication schedule. Please note that contributions may be additionally copyedited to conform to journal style.

Complimentary copies: Contributors will be sent one complimentary copy (each) of the issue in which their articles appear. In the case of multiple authors, the copies (up to a maximum of three) will be sent to the first-named contributor for distribution.
