

Information for Contributors

The Journal of Medical Entomology is published in January, March, May, July, September, and November. Publication in the journal is not limited to members of the Entomological Society of America. Contributors report on all phases of medical entomology and medical acarology, including the systematics and biology of insects, acarines, and other arthropods of public health and veterinary significance.

All papers are reviewed by scientists qualified to judge the validity of the research. Acceptance or rejection, however, is the decision of the subject editor. Acceptance of papers is based solely on their scientific merit. Appeal of a rejected manuscript should be made to the Editorial Board, via the Director of Publications. Accepted manuscripts are published approximately in the order they are received.

In addition to research papers, the journal publishes letters to the editor, interpretive articles in a Forum section, articles that describe new entomological techniques, scientific notes, book reviews, and Rapid Communications (which are processed at a faster rate and an additional cost). The same guidelines apply to these as to research articles.

For more detailed instructions concerning the preparation and submission of manuscripts, consult the Publishing with ESA Style Guide published on our web site, <http://www.entsoc.org>.

Manuscript Preparation. Type all manuscripts double-spaced, with 1-inch margins. Number pages consecutively, beginning with the title page. Begin each of the following on a separate page and arrange in the following order: title page, abstract and key words (three to six words), text, acknowledgments, references cited, footnotes, tables, and figure legends. Submit an original and two copies of the manuscript and artwork to:

Journal of Medical Entomology
Entomological Society of America
9301 Annapolis Road
Lanham, MD 20706

Do not submit a new manuscript directly to the subject editor.

Title Page. In the upper right corner, type the complete name, address, telephone number, fax number, and email of the author who is to receive and approve page proofs. In the upper left corner, type Journal of Medical Entomology, the section of the journal in which the manuscript should appear, and the running head. Use a brief and informative title that includes order and family names in parentheses. Four lines beneath the title, type in capital letters the complete names of all authors. Four lines beneath the authors' names, type the department, institution, city, state, zip code, and country (other than the United States) of the institution where the research was done. Use numbered footnotes for authors not affiliated with the research institution, and give their addresses or affiliations on the footnote page.

Abstract. Abstract should be an informative digest of the significant contents and the main conclusions of the research.

References Cited. Citations in the text should be by last name of the author and date and refer to a reference listed alphabetically by author in References Cited. For further formatting instructions, see our Publishing with ESA Style Guide (<http://www.entsoc.org>).

Tables. Keep tables to a minimum. Type all parts of each table double-spaced, with each table starting a new page.

Illustrations. At the time of manuscript submission, submit original drawings. Photographs must be on glossy paper. Separate parts of the same figure must be mounted together on illustration board and arranged to use space efficiently. Authors should indicate a preference for one- or two-column reproduction and are asked to account for the length of the caption and for proportionated reduction or enlargement in the choice of lettering size, type style, and the format of the artwork itself. Final (reduced) lettering size should be 10 points. Authors are urged to contact the staff of the publications office with questions concerning the preparation of artwork. Each piece of artwork should be labeled with the corresponding author's name, address, and telephone number; an abbreviated title of the paper; and the name of the journal to which the article has been submitted. Original artwork for rejected papers is returned by the subject editor; all other artwork is returned to the corresponding author upon request.

Style Conventions. When first mentioned, a plant or animal should include the full scientific name and the author of the zoological name unabbreviated—except for Linnaeus (L.) and Fabricius (F.). Use only common names approved by the Entomological Society of America (Common Names of Insects & Related Organisms 1997). Otherwise, the manuscript should conform to the guidelines established by the latest edition of the Council of Biology Editors Style Manual.

Proofs and Reprints. Page proofs and reprint order forms are sent to authors after manuscripts are typeset. All changes in proof, except for printer and editorial errors and answers to copyeditor queries addressing style or format, will be charged to the author.

Editorial Charges. Editorial review charges are assessed on all accepted manuscripts to cover some of the expenses of publishing. Contact the publications office at (301) 731-4535 or the ESA web site (<http://www.entsoc.org>) for current rates. Reprints (printed and electronic) are ordered at the time page proofs are returned to ESA; see the reprint order form for rates. Author alterations are billed at $6 per alteration (alterations to figures are billed at a higher rate). Member authors who are retired and not affiliated with any institution can publish five pages gratis each year. Member authors who are employed but who have no grants or funds for publication can request a partial waiver of editorial charges. Such requests must be made at the time of manuscript submission. For a full explanation, see our publications policies on the ESA web site (<http://www.entsoc.org>).
