Founded by Sylvia L. Thrupp

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for new research and interpretation concerning problems of recurrent patterning and change in human societies through time and in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance among specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Review articles and discussions bring readers into touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

CSSH welcomes submissions. Essays should be written in such a way that complex issues are made intelligible and appealing to erudite readers who are not specialists in the subject under investigation. The editors prefer that essays be concise and will not often accept submissions over 12,000 words, including notes and bibliography. Authors are also required to attach an abstract of no more than 250 words in length, including a concise description of their hypothesis, methodology, key sources, and conclusions.

The editors ask that submissions be presented in a manner that facilitates the work of editing. Please submit three typed copies of your work together with an electronic version on a 3.5-inch diskette or CD (Microsoft Word is the preferred software). The Journal uses Windows-based PCs exclusively: Materials formatted for Macintosh, Linux, or other operating systems will only be accepted by prior arrangement. The work should be printed in 12-point type and double-spaced throughout, including quotations, notes, and bibliography. Please allow generous margins of an inch or more for editorial corrections. Photocopies of illustrations are acceptable when first submitting an essay for review, but authors must supply photographs or camera-ready copy and secure written permissions to reproduce them when that essay is accepted for publication.

All submissions and editorial correspondence should be sent to
