

The Journal of Public Policy (JPP) is a peer-reviewed journal that publishes articles that apply social science theories and concepts to significant political, economic and social issues and to the ways in which public policies are made. Methodology and concepts should be instrumental in achieving analytic purposes and concepts and theories should be grounded in an awareness of government.

JPP often publishes articles that cut across disciplines, such as environmental issues, international political economy, regulatory policy and European Union processes. Every article is intended to be relevant across national boundaries, dealing with problems common in many societies. Articles that make explicit comparisons across nations are particularly welcome.

Preparing a Manuscript for Submission Using ScholarOne

You must set up a user account with ScholarOne before you can submit a manuscript. To set up a user account, please enter your information at: <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/jpublicpolicy>.

Once you create an account, you can log in with the username and password you created. On your Dashboard, you can submit a new manuscript and see a list of all your manuscripts already in progress, if applicable.

When submitting a new manuscript, you will go through six steps:

1. Type, title and abstract
2. Attributes
3. Authors and institutions
4. Details and comments
5. File upload
6. Review and submit

In step #1, you must select your manuscript type:

- Original Article
- Review
- Field Essay

Most authors will choose "Original Article." We do not commonly publish Review articles, and we categorize manuscripts as Field Essays on a case-by-case basis.

Once you have selected your manuscript type, please input your manuscript title, running head and abstract. Please note that your abstract should also be included in your anonymized manuscript ("Main Document--Anonymous"), as specified below under Instructions for Contributors. You must indicate whether or not you are submitting the manuscript on your own or on someone else's behalf.

Upon clicking "Save and Continue," you will move to step #2, which will prompt you to enter at least four but no more than six keywords.

In step #3, you will be asked to input the contact information for yourself and any co-authors you may have.

In step #4, you will have the opportunity to cut and paste or upload a cover letter. Although cover letters are not required, submitting authors commonly use them to briefly summarize the significance of their manuscript to the field and relevance to JPP. At this step, you must indicate whether your article has previously been submitted to JPP. Additionally, you must list the number of figures, tables and words in your manuscript. Your word count should include all text from your introduction through conclusion; your word count does not include your abstract, references, tables, or figures. Please note that figures and tables are printed in black and white unless otherwise noted.

Note: Because ScholarOne sets a timer on all processes, we strongly advise you to print any text in a Word document and then cut and paste into the appropriate location when you are ready. Otherwise, you may lose your work.

In step #5, you will have the opportunity to upload the files associated with your manuscript. At a minimum, this should include two files: 1) Title Page and 2) Main Document – Anonymous. You may upload any supplementary files you wish to include in the online version of your manuscript. Please review the Instructions for Contributors below for more information on formatting.

In step #6, you will review your PDF proof and then submit your manuscript. You should receive an email shortly thereafter confirming your submission.

Instructions for Contributors

Authors should not submit manuscripts that have been submitted or published in whole or in part elsewhere. When you are ready to submit your manuscript, please ensure that you upload two documents: 1) Title Page and 2) Main Document – Anonymous. Supplementary Materials or Other Material files are optional. LaTeX users, see below.

Your Title Page should include the following:

- Title of manuscript (50-word limit)
- Keywords (4-6)
- Corresponding author
- For each author: name, title, department and institutional affiliation, address, phone number, fax number, and e-mail address
- Word count of Main Document – Anonymous
- Acknowledgements (if applicable)
- A list of all funding sources, disclaimers and conflicts of interest (if applicable)

Your Main Document – Anonymous should include the following:

- Abstract (150 word limit)
- Body (5,000-8,000 words)
- References
- Figures and tables (black and white)
- Page numbers

ScholarOne will automatically use the title supplied by you upon submission to create a cover page for reviewers, which will be appended to the Main Document – Anonymous.

Formatting Instructions

Your Main Document – Anonymous should be approximately 5,000-8,000 words excluding the Abstract, References, and Figures and Tables. It should be double-spaced and have a left-hand margin of at least 1 inch (2.54 cm). Pages should be numbered consecutively. The entire Main Document – Anonymous should not exceed 45 pages. JPP accepts either English or American spelling.

Please do not embed your figures and tables into the body of the text. Instead, figures and tables should be included after your references at the end of your Main Document – Anonymous or uploaded as separate files. Please indicate within the text the location of all figures and tables.

For referencing, please use endnotes, not footnotes. Keep endnote use to a minimum; use endnotes only for points that are relevant but distracting if they were included in the main text. Jargon should be avoided. Technical terms not widely understood should be clearly defined, and the conclusions of statistical analyses should be set out in prose, as well as supported by quantitative information in tables and text as appropriate.

Please verify that all citations that appear in the text match the reference list. We prefer and publish each issue of JPP using the citation and referencing format described in the APSA Style Manual. This style uses in-text citations that list the author and year of publication in parentheses, e.g., (Bertelli, 2000). The reference list includes all works cited listed alphabetically. Upon submission, however, you may use any format you wish as long as you are consistent.

Anonymity

JPP uses a double-blind review process, so please ensure that your Main Document-- Anonymous contains no information that can be used to identify the author or co-authors. This information should only be included on the Title Page.

LaTeX Users

Please upload a PDF document for your Main Document – Anonymous. This must contain all figures and tables. The system will convert this file into a PDF proof file, which includes a cover page and which will be made available to reviewers. Note: The system cannot convert PDF files produced directly from LaTeX, such as pdfTeX-1.40 and similar formats. If your PDF has been created this way, open it in Adobe Acrobat and re-save it in a standard PDF format before uploading it to the ScholarOne system. You must view the system PDF proof by clicking on the green PDF button.

Production Process

What happens after I submit my manuscript?

Once your manuscript is submitted, it will be forwarded on to the Managing Editor to conduct an initial screening to ensure it adequately adheres to JPP's Instructions for Contributors described above. If it does not, the Managing Editor may "unsubmit" your manuscript, which will allow you to revise and resubmit your manuscript once it meets these guidelines.

Once your manuscript passes this initial screening, it is assigned to editorial staff members who determine if the manuscript is within the scope of what JPP publishes. If your manuscript is appropriate for JPP, peer reviewers with expertise and experience pertinent to the topic of your manuscript will be invited to evaluate your manuscript. Their feedback will be used to determine whether or not your manuscript should be accepted, rejected or reconsidered upon either a minor or major revision. Please note that revisions often require a second round of peer reviews.

If your manuscript is accepted or provisionally accepted, it will be returned to you with any final reviewer or editorial comments or suggested revisions. At this time, you should review the Instructions for Contributors described above and ensure that the final version of your manuscript meets all requirements and that all files associated with your manuscript are uploaded to ScholarOne. Further, you should ensure that you fill out and return a Transfer of Copyright form, which is available on our website. This form can be uploaded directly with your other files or emailed to the Managing Editor. If you would like to publish your manuscript through an Open-Access model, please follow the instructions in your email to do so, including alerting the Managing Editor of your decision.

Next, your manuscript will be sent to Production. Production staff will email you a final proof. Please ensure you send any final edits back within two days of receiving this proof.

The final steps include assigning your manuscript to an upcoming issue of JPP, releasing an online version of your manuscript, and finally releasing the print version of JPP.

How long does the process take?

Once your manuscript has been submitted, we allow about one week for the Managing Editor to conduct the initial screening. The amount of time it takes for a manuscript to move from this screening through to production varies highly based on many factors. Key factors include how long it takes for a sufficient amount of reviewers to read and submit feedback on your manuscript and the amount of time it takes you to submit revisions to their manuscript before a final decision is made to accept or reject your manuscript for publication.
