

Review of International Studies

Manuscripts

The Editors welcome submission of material for consideration as a main article or as a review article. The length required for main articles is 8-10,000 words including footnotes and for review articles 4,000 words. Replies to articles should normally be between 1,500-2,000 words in length, and are also sent to independent referees. The Review is a refereed journal, and contributors should allow time for the process of refereeing to take place. It is the author's responsibility to provide the editors with an accurate total word count for all articles on submission.

Prospective authors should submit their manuscripts by electronic mail (njr3@st-andrews.ac.uk) or on disk. In either case, two hard copies of the manuscript should also be submitted to:

Professor Nick Rengger
Department of International Relations
University of St. Andrews,
St Andrews KY16 9AL
Scotland, UK

Manuscripts should be typed on one side of the paper only with generous margins and should be double spaced throughout. An abstract of 100 words plus a short biographical note (appropriate for Notes on Contributors) should accompany the manuscript. To guarantee anonymity, the authors should include a title page without their names, and remove any reference to themselves from the manuscript.

When an article has been accepted for publication, the author must send a copy of the final version on computer disk (IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Word or Word Perfect). The Editors reserve the right not to accept articles not presented in the house style.

References and notes

These should be amalgamated and signalled serially within each article by superscript numerals. The references and notes themselves should be typed on separate sheets at the end of the article. References should give full biographical details, including place of publication and publisher, at first mention. Thereafter the author's surname and a short title should be used (not op. cit.). A cross-reference to the original citation, e.g. '(see n.4 above)' may also appear in single inverted commas; the title of a book or journal should be underlined. Main words should be capitalized in article and book titles.

References and notes should be typed in the form of the following examples:

1. Lawrence Freedman, The Evolution of Nuclear Strategy (London: Macmillan, 1981), pp. 51-53
2. Freedman, Evolution of Nuclear Strategy, p.152
3. Bruce Cummings, 'Japan and the Asian Periphery', in Melvy P.Leffler and David S. Painter (eds.) Origins of the Cold War (London: Routledge, 1994), pp. 226-229

4. New York Times, 13 May 1987
5. Cummings, 'Japan', p. 216
6. J. P. Cornford, 'The Illusion of Decision', British Journal of Political Science, 4 (1974), pp. 231-43.

Subheadings

Contributors are encouraged to include up to two levels of subheading in articles to provide 'signposts' for readers. They should be typed flush left with only the first word and any proper names capitalized.

General

First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editor a current address and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs, by airmail where appropriate, within three days of receiving them.

Authors of articles and review articles will receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be ordered on the form provided which must be returned at proof stage.

Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to the British International Studies Association so that their interest may be safeguarded.

© British International Studies Association 2002

(Revised 16/1/06)