Foreword	x
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvi
Introduction	xvii
 1 The Physics and Chemistry of Life:
Basic Principles and Methods	1
The Central Dogma of Molecular Biology	2
From Atoms to Molecules	5
Levels of Protein Structure	7
How Mutations Change Proteins	12
Basic Molecular Functions	15
X-rays and Crystallography	18
Nuclear Magnetic Resonance	23
The First Synchrotron Experiments	24
Atomic Force Microscopy	30
Photonic Force Microscopy	33
Using Light Microscopes to Investigate Molecules	36
Electron Microscopes and Cryo-electron Tomography	41
 2 How the Cell Stores and Uses
Information	47
The Double Helix	48
From DNA's Structure to Its Functions	53
Working with Rosalind Franklin: A Personal Account	54
The Structure of Single Genes	62
Activating a Gene	65

Epigenetics: Controlling Genes at the Level of Chromatin	68
DNA Computers	72
The Structure and Functions of RNAs	75
RNAs and the Control of Translation	78
Noncoding RNAs	82
Transposons	87
Making and Refining Proteins	94
Summary	96
 3 Communication Between and Inside Cells	 98
Kinase Receptors and Ligands	99
Membrane Channels and Pumps	102
The Discovery of the Water Channel	105
Neurotransmitters and Synapses	108
Molecular Amplifiers and Vision	113
Chemotaxis	116
Developmental Signals and the Origins of Animals	119
 4 Traffic and Cell Architecture	 124
Microtubules and Motors	125
Microtubules and Evolution's Toolbox	129
Why Bacteria Do Not Need Brains	132
Actin Filaments	134
Traffic into and out of the Cell Nucleus	139
Lipids, Membranes, and Vesicles	142
 5 Molecules of Immunity, Health, and Disease	 148
The Innate Immune System	149
Adaptive Immunity	151
How Antibodies and T Cell Receptors Are Made	155

Using Antibodies in Research and Medicine	160
A Devil in Distress: Can Cancer Be a
Transmissible Disease?	164
Viruses and Cancer	166
The Molecules of AIDS	168
Amyloids and Neurodegenerative Diseases	172
Prions and Mad Cow Disease	175
Steroids and Other Hormones	178
Nicotine and Addiction	181
Conclusion	183
 Chronology	 185
Glossary	194
Further Resources	202
Index	212
