

Contents

|                                                                                                |           |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| Preface                                                                                        | xv        |
| Acknowledgments                                                                                | xvii      |
| 1. Working safely and efficiently in the biochemical laboratory                         | 1  |
| 1.1 Working Safely With Microorganisms                                                  | 1  |
| Fundamental restrictions and sources of information pertinent to biosafety                     | 1         |
| The bacterial strains to be used in the exercises in this book                                 | 2         |
| 1.2 Working Safely With Chemicals and Laboratory Equipment                              | 2  |
| Fundamental restrictions and administrative issues                                             | 2         |
| Personal protective equipment                                                                  | 3         |
| Hazards from equipment                                                                         | 3         |
| Safety data sheet for a chemical                                                               | 5         |
| Terminology that pertains to toxic chemicals                                                   | 5         |
| Minimizing exposure to hazardous chemicals                                                     | 5         |
| Responding to an emergency in the laboratory                                                   | 6         |
| 1.3 Preparing for Experiments, Performing Calculations, and Recording Data              | 7  |
| Your laboratory notebook                                                                       | 7         |
| Personal electronic devices                                                                    | 8         |
| Bibliography                                                                            | 8  |
| 2. The structure and function of secondary metabolites that are secreted by bacteria    | 9  |
| 2.1 The Significance of Secondary Metabolites                                           | 9  |
| 2.2 A Signaling Molecule Secreted by Vibrio fischeri Functions in Quorum Sensing | 9  |
| Bioluminescence and quorum sensing in bacteria                                                 | 10        |
| The lux operon and Vibrio autoinducer 1                                                 | 10        |
| 2.3 Siderophores Allow Bacteria to Acquire Iron From Their Environment                  | 11 |

|     |                                                                                                                       |    |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 2.4 | Coronatine Is Secreted by Pathovars of Pseudomonas syringae and Is Toxic to Chloroplasts in Crop Plants | 13 |
|     | Phytopathogenic bacteria                                                                                              | 13 |
|     | Coronatine                                                                                                            | 14 |
|     | Bibliography                                                                                                   | 14 |
| 3.  | Overview of the methods for purification of metabolites that are secreted by bacteria                          | 19 |
| 3.1 | Inoculation and Incubation of Bacterial Cultures                                                               | 19 |
|     | Literature pertaining to bacteriology                                                                                 | 19 |
|     | Choice of medium for the culture                                                                                      | 19 |
|     | The starter culture and the subculture                                                                                | 20 |
| 3.2 | Monitoring the Growth of Bacterial Cultures by Quantification of Turbidity                                     | 21 |
|     | Calculation of the cellular density of a culture from spectrophotometric data                                         | 21 |
|     | Dilution of an aliquot of the culture and correction for the dilution                                                 | 22 |
|     | Calculation of the minimal generation time of a species of bacteria                                                   | 23 |
| 3.3 | Removal of Bacteria From a Culture by Centrifugation and Filtration                                            | 24 |
|     | Sedimentation of the cells in a culture by centrifugation                                                             | 24 |
|     | Removal of the cells from a culture by filtration                                                                     | 24 |
| 3.4 | Liquid-Liquid Extraction of a Metabolite from the Supernate of a Culture                                       | 25 |
| 3.5 | Solid-Phase Extraction of a Metabolite From the Supernate of a Culture                                         | 26 |
| 3.6 | Drying, Resuspension, Quantification of Yield and Storage of a Purified Metabolite                             | 28 |
|     | Drying                                                                                                                | 28 |
|     | Resuspension                                                                                                          | 29 |
|     | Quantification of yield                                                                                               | 30 |
|     | Storage of a purified metabolite                                                                                      | 30 |
|     | Bibliography                                                                                                   | 31 |
| 4.  | Absorption of ultraviolet, visible, and infrared radiation                                                     | 33 |
| 4.1 | Absorption of Ultraviolet and Visible Radiation by Organic Molecules and Ionized Metals in Solution            | 33 |
|     | Definitions for the use of UV and visible radiation on analytes in solution                                           | 34 |

|                                                                                                                                                  |    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Examples of the use of UV and visible radiationon analytes in solution                                                                       | 36 |
| The Beer–Lambert law                                                                                                                             | 36 |
| 4.2 Recording the Spectra of Absorption ofUltraviolet and Visible Radiation by OrganicMolecules and Ionized Metals in Solution  | 37 |
| 4.3 Evaluating the Spectra of Absorption ofUltraviolet and Visible Radiation by OrganicMolecules and Ionized Metals in Solution | 38 |
| Evaluation of the spectra as spectroscopy                                                                                                        | 38 |
| Evaluation of the spectra as spectrophotometry                                                                                                   | 39 |
| 4.4 Absorption of Infrared Radiation by OrganicMolecules                                                                             | 41 |
| The format of a spectrum of the absorption of IRradiation by an analyte                                                                      | 42 |
| 4.5 Recording the Spectra of Absorption ofInfrared Radiation by Organic Molecules                                                    | 42 |
| Dimethyl sulfoxide                                                                                                                               | 42 |
| Enterobactin                                                                                                                                     | 43 |
| 4.6 Elucidating the Structure of Organic Moleculesby Examining Their Spectra of Absorption ofInfrared Radiation                 | 43 |
| Dimethyl sulfoxide                                                                                                                               | 43 |
| Enterobactin                                                                                                                                     | 47 |
| Bibliography                                                                                                                              | 47 |
| 5. High-performance liquid chromatography                                                                                                 | 49 |
| 5.1 Theory and Practice of High-Performance LiquidChromatography                                                                     | 49 |
| The history and variations of high-performance liquidchromatography                                                                          | 49 |
| Application of high-performance liquidchromatography to organic metabolites                                                                  | 50 |
| The stationary phase, the mobile phase and thechromatographic parameters                                                                     | 51 |
| Detection and quantification of organic metabolitesin the analyte                                                                            | 52 |
| 5.2 An Example of the Use of High-PerformanceLiquid Chromatography                                                                   | 53 |
| Preparation of samples                                                                                                                           | 53 |
| Chromatographic parameters                                                                                                                       | 54 |
| Detection of analytes by absorption of ultravioletor visible radiation                                                                       | 55 |
| Bibliography                                                                                                                              | 57 |

|                                                                                                      |    |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 6. Mass spectrometry                                                                          | 59 |
| 6.1 Theory and Practice of Mass Spectrometry                                                  | 59 |
| Fundamentals                                                                                         | 59 |
| Electrospray ionization                                                                              | 60 |
| Quadrupole mass analyzers                                                                            | 60 |
| Time-of-flight mass analyzers                                                                        | 61 |
| Mass spectrometry linked to chromatography                                                           | 61 |
| 6.2 Examples of the Use of Liquid Chromatography–Mass Spectrometry                            | 62 |
| Preparation of samples of metabolites                                                                | 62 |
| Chromatographic parameters                                                                           | 63 |
| Interpretation of chromatograms and mass spectra                                                     | 64 |
| Bibliography                                                                                  | 65 |
| 7. Nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy                                                    | 67 |
| 7.1 Theory and Practice of Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopy                            | 67 |
| The importance of nuclear magnetic resonance for structural studies                                  | 67 |
| The magnetic properties of nuclei and molecules                                                      | 67 |
| Effect of continuous application of an external magnetic field on $^1\text{H}$ nuclei                | 68 |
| Effect of pulsed application of an external magnetic field on $^1\text{H}$ nuclei                    | 70 |
| Acquisition of the free induction decay as $^1\text{H}$ nuclei return to equilibrium                 | 71 |
| Effect of local magnetic fields on relaxation: interference from paramagnetic substances             | 71 |
| Calculation of the chemical shifts for nuclei of $^1\text{H}$ and generation of a resonance spectrum | 72 |
| Effect of molecular structure on chemical shifts for nuclei of $^1\text{H}$                          | 73 |
| Effect of spin–spin coupling on an $^1\text{H}$ nuclear magnetic resonance spectrum                  | 73 |
| 7.2 An Example of the Use of Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopy                          | 74 |
| Bibliography                                                                                  | 77 |
| 8. X-ray crystallography                                                                      | 79 |
| 8.1 The Importance of Crystallography                                                         | 79 |
| 8.2 Growing Crystals of an Organic Metabolite                                                 | 79 |
| 8.3 The Theory of X-ray Diffraction                                                           | 80 |
| 8.4 Mounting the Crystal on an X-ray Diffractometer and Collecting the Data                   | 81 |

|     |                                                                                                                                            |    |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 8.5 | Identifying the Lattice System and Bravais Lattice of the Unit Cell in the Crystal                                                         | 81 |
| 8.6 | Identifying the Space Group of the Unit Cell in the Crystal                                                                                | 82 |
| 8.7 | Recording the Diffraction Data as a Reciprocal Lattice of the Crystal                                                                      | 82 |
| 8.8 | Solving the Structure of an Organic Metabolite                                                                                             | 83 |
|     | Bibliography                                                                                                                               | 84 |
| 9.  | Exercises in purifying and characterizing a quorum-sensing signal                                                                          | 85 |
| 9.1 | Growth of a Culture of the Luminescent Marine Bacterium Vibrio fischeri                                                             | 85 |
|     | Theoretical background                                                                                                                     | 85 |
|     | Technical background                                                                                                                       | 86 |
|     | Materials                                                                                                                                  | 87 |
|     | Procedure                                                                                                                                  | 88 |
| 9.2 | Removal of Bacteria from the Culture by Centrifugation and Filtration                                                                      | 88 |
|     | Theoretical and technical background                                                                                                       | 88 |
|     | Materials                                                                                                                                  | 88 |
|     | Procedure                                                                                                                                  | 89 |
|     | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                            | 90 |
| 9.3 | Extraction of Vibrio Autoinducer 1, an N -acyl Homoserine Lactone, from the Supernate of the Culture with an Organic Solvent | 90 |
|     | Theoretical and technical background                                                                                                       | 90 |
|     | Materials                                                                                                                                  | 91 |
|     | Procedure                                                                                                                                  | 91 |
| 9.4 | Removal of Solvent from the Fraction Enriched in Vibrio Autoinducer 1 and Resuspension of the Dried Substance                       | 92 |
|     | Theoretical and technical background                                                                                                       | 92 |
|     | Materials                                                                                                                                  | 92 |
|     | Procedure                                                                                                                                  | 93 |
| 9.5 | Assay of the Luminescence-inducing Activity of Vibrio Autoinducer 1                                                                 | 93 |
|     | Theoretical background                                                                                                                     | 93 |
|     | Technical background                                                                                                                       | 94 |
|     | Materials                                                                                                                                  | 94 |
|     | Procedure                                                                                                                                  | 95 |
|     | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                            | 96 |
| 9.6 | Spectrophotometric Quantification of the Yield of Vibrio Autoinducer 1 Using Ultraviolet Radiation                                  | 96 |
|     | Theoretical background                                                                                                                     | 96 |

|                                                                                                                 |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Technical background                                                                                            | 97  |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 97  |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 98  |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 98  |
| 9.7 Infrared Spectroscopic Elucidation of the Structure of Vibrio Autoinducer 1                   | 99  |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 99  |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 99  |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 99  |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 100 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 100 |
| 9.8 Assay, by Mass Spectrometry, of the Structure of Vibrio Autoinducer 1                         | 100 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 100 |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 101 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 102 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 102 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 102 |
| 9.9 Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopic Elucidation of the Structure of Vibrio Autoinducer 1 | 103 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 103 |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 103 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 104 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 105 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 105 |
| Bibliography                                                                                             | 105 |
| 10. Exercises in purifying and characterizing iron-chelating molecules                                   | 107 |
| 10.1 Growth of a Culture of the Enteric Bacterium Enterobacter aerogenes                          | 107 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 107 |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 108 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 109 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 110 |
| 10.2 Removal of Bacteria from the Culture by Centrifugation and Filtration                               | 111 |
| Theoretical and technical background                                                                            | 111 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 111 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 112 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 113 |
| 10.3 Extraction of a Siderophore From the Supernate of a Culture by Adsorption Onto a Solid Phase        | 113 |
| Theoretical and technical background                                                                            | 113 |

|              |                                                                                                            |     |
|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
|              | Materials                                                                                                  | 114 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                  | 114 |
| 10.4  | Elution of a Siderophore From a Solid Phase, Removal of Solvent and Resuspension of Dried Substance | 115 |
|              | Theoretical and technical background                                                                       | 115 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                  | 116 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                  | 116 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                            | 119 |
| 10.5  | Spectrophotometric Quantification of the Yield of Siderophore Using Ultraviolet Radiation           | 119 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                     | 119 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                  | 120 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                  | 120 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                            | 121 |
| 10.6  | Colorimetric and Spectrophotometric Assay for Chelation of Iron(III) by the Siderophore             | 122 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                     | 122 |
|              | Technical background                                                                                       | 122 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                  | 123 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                  | 123 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                            | 123 |
| 10.7  | Chromatographic Assay for Chelation of Iron(III) by the Siderophore                                 | 124 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                     | 124 |
|              | Technical background                                                                                       | 125 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                  | 126 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                  | 127 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                            | 128 |
| 10.8  | Assay by Mass Spectrometry for Chelation of Iron(III) by the Siderophore                            | 128 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                     | 128 |
|              | Technical background                                                                                       | 129 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                  | 130 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                  | 131 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                            | 132 |
| 10.9  | Infrared Spectroscopic Elucidation of the Structure of the Siderophore                              | 133 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                     | 133 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                  | 134 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                  | 134 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                            | 134 |
| 10.10 | Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopic Elucidation of the Structure of the Siderophore            | 135 |

|              |                                                                                                                                         |     |
|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                                                  | 135 |
|              | Technical background                                                                                                                    | 135 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                                               | 136 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                                               | 137 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                         | 138 |
| 10.11 | Growing Crystals of Ferrioxamine E, a Complex of a Siderophore and Iron(III) from the Bacterium Streptomyces antibioticus | 138 |
|              | Experimental plan and schedule of activities                                                                                            | 138 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                                                  | 139 |
|              | Technical background                                                                                                                    | 139 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                                               | 139 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                                               | 140 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                         | 141 |
| 10.12 | Evaluation of the Precipitated Ferrioxamine E for the Properties of Crystals                                                     | 142 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                                                  | 142 |
|              | Technical background                                                                                                                    | 142 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                                               | 143 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                                               | 143 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                         | 143 |
| 10.13 | Collection and Interpretation of X-ray Diffraction Data from Single Crystals of Ferrioxamine E                                   | 143 |
|              | Theoretical and technical background                                                                                                    | 143 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                         | 144 |
|              | Bibliography                                                                                                                     | 144 |
| 11.   | Exercises in purifying and characterizing a chloroplast-targeting phytotoxin                                                     | 147 |
| 11.1  | Growth of a Culture of the Glycinea Pathovar of the Bacterium Pseudomonas syringae                                        | 147 |
|              | Theoretical background                                                                                                                  | 147 |
|              | Technical background                                                                                                                    | 147 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                                               | 148 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                                               | 150 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                         | 151 |
| 11.2  | Removal of Bacteria from the Culture by Centrifugation and Filtration                                                            | 151 |
|              | Theoretical and technical background                                                                                                    | 151 |
|              | Materials                                                                                                                               | 152 |
|              | Procedure                                                                                                                               | 153 |
|              | Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                                         | 154 |

|                                                                                                                 |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 11.3 Extraction of Coronatine from the Supernate of the Culture With an Organic Solvent                  | 155 |
| Theoretical and technical background                                                                            | 155 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 155 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 155 |
| 11.4 Removal of Solvent from the Fraction Enriched in Coronatine and Resuspension of the Dried Substance | 156 |
| Theoretical and technical background                                                                            | 156 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 156 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 157 |
| 11.5 Assay on the Leaves of Plants for the Chlorosis Activity of Coronatine                              | 158 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 158 |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 158 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 158 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 159 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 160 |
| 11.6 Spectrophotometric Quantification of the Yield of Coronatine Using Ultraviolet Radiation            | 160 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 160 |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 161 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 161 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 162 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 163 |
| 11.7 Infrared Spectroscopic Elucidation of the Structure of Coronatine                                   | 163 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 163 |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 163 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 164 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 164 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 164 |
| 11.8 Assay, by Mass Spectrometry, of the Structure of Coronatine                                         | 164 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 164 |
| Technical Background                                                                                            | 165 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 166 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 167 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 168 |
| 11.9 Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopic Elucidation of the Structure of Coronatine                 | 168 |
| Theoretical background                                                                                          | 168 |
| Technical background                                                                                            | 168 |
| Materials                                                                                                       | 169 |
| Procedure                                                                                                       | 170 |
| Evaluation of results and questions to consider                                                                 | 170 |
| Bibliography                                                                                             | 170 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                           |            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 12. Designing your own experiments                                                                                                                                                                 | 173 |
| 12.1 Sources of Technical Information and Guides for Designing Protocols                                                                                                                           | 173 |
| Sources on the Internet                                                                                                                                                                                   | 173        |
| Books                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 173        |
| 12.2 Creating Methods to Purify and Characterize Fluorescent Molecules That Are Secreted by Bacteria                                                                                               | 173 |
| Fundamentals of fluorescence and luminescence                                                                                                                                                             | 173        |
| Definitions for fluorescence                                                                                                                                                                              | 174        |
| Definitions for chemical and biological luminescence                                                                                                                                                      | 174        |
| Research the literature that pertains to fluorescent secondary metabolites that are secreted by bacteria                                                                                                  | 175        |
| Identify the appropriate bacterial strain within the appropriate species                                                                                                                                  | 176        |
| Review the published experiments regarding purification of fluorescent molecules that are secreted by bacteria and design protocols that will be practical in the laboratory in which you will be working | 177        |
| Plan the growth of cultures and the purification of the fluorescent molecules                                                                                                                             | 178        |
| Plan experiments to examine the structure of the purified molecule                                                                                                                                        | 180        |
| Bibliography                                                                                                                                                                                       | 182 |
| Index                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 185        |