

Contents

Preface to the Third Edition	xiii
Author	xvii
1 The Basics of Managing a Laboratory Animal Facility	1
A Definition of Management	3
Are You a Manager?	4
Are You a New Manager?	6
"Levels" of Management	10
Resources Managers Have	13
Human Resources	14
Fiscal Resources	14
Capital Resources	14
Information Resources	15
Time	15
Efficiency and Effectiveness	17
What Do Managers Do?	18
Roles of a Manager	19
1. A Manager Makes Decisions	20
2. A Manager Plans	26
3. A Manager Organizes	28
4. A Manager Directs	29
5. A Manager Controls	30
Organizational Mission: The Big Picture	32
Goals	32
Mission Statement	34
Hypothetical Mission Statements Are They Adequate?	37
Actual Mission Statements of Various Organizations	39
Fulfilling Your Organization's Mission	40
Vision Statement	42
Strategic Planning and Long-Range Goals	47
The Need to Balance Long-Range and Short-Range Goals	53
Reevaluating Goals and Plans	53

Developing and Measuring Productivity Goals and Strategies	55
Final Thoughts and a Summary of This Chapter	56
References	58
2 The Organizational Environment	61
Organizational Culture	61
Changing the Organizational Culture	65
External Environment of Your Company	67
Social Environment	68
Politico-Economic Environment	70
Physical Environment	72
Information and Technical Environment	72
Relating Your Goals to Your Organization's Goals	73
References	76
3 The Management of Human Resources	77
Communications	78
Verbal Communication	79
Communicating with People from Different Cultures	84
Written Communication	85
Keep Communications as Open as Is Practical	87
Sounds of Silence	90
Listening and Feedback	91
Selective Listening	94
Difficult Conversations	96
Another Difficult Conversation: Performance Reviews	103
360-Degree Feedback	106
The Most Difficult Conversation of All: Apologizing	108
Difficult People	109
Consider Having an SOP for Difficult Conversations	110
Communicating with Your Own Supervisor	112
Accommodating Your Boss's Management Style	115
Management Styles	115
Individual Management Styles	118
Trust	121
Supporting Your Staff	124
Building Trust through Listening	125
Motivation	126
Basic Requirements for Keeping Your Staff Motivated	127
Keeping Motivation High: Tangible and Intangible Rewards	133
Intangible Rewards	134
Tangible Rewards	136
Quality Output Should Be Expected	140

Promotion as a Tangible Reward and Motivator	142
Promoting Employees When Promotion Opportunities Are Limited ..	145
Keeping Your Star Performers	147
Quick Summary about Motivation (and Demotivation)	148
Keeping Motivation High: Setting Goals with Individuals	149
Influencing People to Accomplish Goals	153
Motivation and Entitlement	157
Morale	158
General Comments	158
Fitting the Person to the Job.....	161
Morale and Organizational Conflict	162
Bridging the Generational Gap.....	164
Allowing Employees to Solve Problems: Empowerment through
Self-Managed Work Teams.....	166
Resistance to Change.....	174
Negotiation.....	177
Interacting with Highly Educated People: Managing the
Unmanageable?.....	181
Final Thoughts.....	183
Thanks for the Advice, but I've Tried It All and Nothing Seems to
Work	183
People Are Our Most Important Resource	184
References.....	185
4 Managing Financial Resources	191
How Money Is Allocated for Animal Purchases.....	193
Profit-Making Organizations	193
Not-for-Profit Organizations	193
How Money Is Obtained for Animal Care	194
Other Sources of Income for Animal Facilities	195
Budgets.....	196
Types of Budgets	197
Information Needed to Plan a Budget.....	199
Reviewing Programs and Operations	203
Working with a Zero-Based Budget	204
How to Calculate Per Diem Rates	206
Management Control of Budgets	209
Inventory and Inventory Control	213
Animal Census and Its Use in Billing	214
Other Financial Control Systems.....	217
What Do I Do If I'm Told to Cut My Budget?	219
References.....	220

5	Management of Information Resources	221
	General Aspects of Information Management	221
	Six Characteristics of Managed Information.....	224
	1. Information Should Be Relevant	224
	2. Information Should Not Be Excessive or Insufficient	225
	3. Information Should Be Timely.....	226
	4. Information Should Reach the People Who Need It	227
	5. Information Should Be Cost-Effective.....	229
	6. Information Should Be Used.....	230
	Information Commonly Needed by Animal Facility Managers	231
	Organizing and Retrieving Information with Computers	234
	References.....	235
6	Time Management.....	237
	General Considerations in Time Management	237
	Thinking about Work Processes.....	241
	Recording Time Usage	242
	Utilizing Time Records.....	244
	Maximizing Time Usage.....	246
	Scheduling Your Day	246
	Do You Need Time for Planning?	248
	Meetings.....	250
	Spontaneous Meeting Dilemma.....	253
	Paperwork and Reading Material.....	254
	Delegation	255
	Returning Delegated Problems Back to the Manager	259
	References.....	260
7	Leadership	263
	Are Managers and Leaders the Same Person?	264
	Do We Need Managers or Leaders for Animal Facilities?.....	267
	Are You a New Leader?	268
	Quick Summary	269
	Framing a Situation	270
	Managers versus Leaders.....	273
	Authority of Leaders	275
	A Leader's Personality Traits	277
	Nonpersonality Characteristics of a Leader.....	283
	How Leaders Use Advice	291
	Getting Good Advice.....	292
	Preventing Bad Advice	294
	Recognizing a Bad Advisor.....	296
	Leadership Effectiveness	297

Moving Up the Leadership Ladder	299
Leadership Succession	302
Tying Together Leadership and Management to Accomplish Goals	303
References	305
Appendix 1: Productivity Goals and Measurements	309
Appendix 2: Setting Per Diem Rates	335
Appendix 3: Hiring the Right People	361
Appendix 4: Training and Mentoring	379
Index	395