

Contents

|                                                                              |           |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| List of figures                                                              | xix       |
| List of tables                                                               | xxv       |
| List of boxes                                                                | xxvii     |
| About the editor                                                             | xxix      |
| List of contributors                                                         | xxxi      |
| Foreword                                                                     | lv        |
| Preface                                                                      | lvii      |
| PART 1 Introduction                                                   | 1  |
| 1 Treasures in the deep sea                                           | 3  |
| Claire W. Armstrong, Jannike Falk-Petersen and Inga Wigdahl Kaspersen |           |
| 1.1 Introduction                                                             | 3         |
| 1.2 Ecosystem services and marine bioprospecting                             | 8         |
| 1.3 The economics of bioprospecting                                          | 10        |
| 1.4 Bioprospecting and sustainability                                        | 12        |
| 1.5 Conclusions                                                              | 14        |
| 1.6 Acknowledgments                                                          | 14        |
| 1.7 References                                                               | 15        |
| 2 The fundamentals and fun of biocatalysis                            | 17 |
| Peter C.K. Lau and Stephan Grosse                                     |           |
| 2.1 Introduction                                                             | 18        |
| 2.2 Basic parameters defining a biocatalytic reaction                        | 21        |
| 2.3 The acrylamide story redux                                               | 31        |
| 2.4 Presidential Green Chemistry Challenge Awards                            | 37        |
| 2.5 Biocatalysis challenges                                                  | 50        |
| 2.6 Nature vs. nurture                                                       | 55        |
| 2.7 Conclusion                                                               | 58        |
| 2.8 Acknowledgements                                                         | 59        |

|               |                                                                                                                           |            |
|---------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 2.9           | References                                                                                                                | 59         |
| 2.10          | Further reading                                                                                                           | 69         |
| 3      | Marine biocatalysts and their stability: molecular approach                                                        | 71  |
|               | K.K. Pulicherla and K.R.S.Sambasiva Rao                                                                            |            |
| 3.1           | Introduction                                                                                                              | 72         |
| 3.2           | Potential industrial applications of psychrozymes                                                                         | 73         |
| 3.3           | Factors influencing impact of low temperature on life                                                                     | 78         |
| 3.4           | Catalytic site of amino acid conservation in psychrozymes                                                                 | 80         |
| 3.5           | Flexibility of psychrozymes                                                                                               | 81         |
| 3.6           | Factors affecting stability of cold-adapted enzymes                                                                       | 82         |
| 3.7           | Relationship between stability, activity and flexibility of cold active enzymes                                           | 84         |
| 3.8           | Amino acid composition analysis of cold-adapted proteins                                                                  | 84         |
| 3.9           | References                                                                                                                | 86         |
| 4      | Marine enzymes with applications for biosynthesis of fine chemicals                                                | 89  |
|               | H. Novak and J. Littlechild                                                                                        |            |
| 4.1           | General introduction                                                                                                      | 89         |
| 4.2           | Halogenases and dehalogenases                                                                                             | 92         |
| 4.3           | Alcohol dehydrogenase                                                                                                     | 99         |
| 4.4           | L-aminoacylase                                                                                                            | 100        |
| 4.5           | Proteases, Esterases and Lipases                                                                                          | 101        |
| 4.6           | Conclusion                                                                                                                | 102        |
| 4.7           | References                                                                                                                | 102        |
| PART 2 | Sources of marine enzymes                                                                                          | 107 |
| 5      | Metagenomic strategies for the discovery of novel enzymes with biotechnological application from marine ecosystems | 109 |
|               | Jonathan Kennedy, Lekha Menon Margassery, John P. Morrissey, Fergal O'Gara, and Alan D. W. Dobson                  |            |
| 5.1           | Introduction                                                                                                              | 110        |
| 5.2           | Metagenomics                                                                                                              | 111        |
| 5.3           | Sequence-based screening – 'whole genome scanning'                                                                        | 113        |
| 5.4           | Sequence-based screening – metagenomic DNA                                                                                | 115        |
| 5.5           | Function-based screening                                                                                                  | 117        |
| 5.6           | Conclusion                                                                                                                | 124        |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                            |            |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 5.7 | Acknowledgements                                                                                                                                                           | 125        |
| 5.8 | References                                                                                                                                                                 | 125        |
| 6   | Bioprocess engineering approaches for the production of marine enzymes                                                                                              | 131 |
|     | Sreyashi Sarkar, Sayani Mitra, Arnab Pramanik, Jayanta Debabrata Choudhury, Anirban Bhattacharyya, Malancha Roy, Kaushik Biswas, Debashis Roy and Joydeep Mukherjee |            |
| 6.1 | Introduction                                                                                                                                                               | 132        |
| 6.2 | Traditional cultivation, bioreactor configuration and modes of operation                                                                                                   | 132        |
| 6.3 | Specialized bioprocess technologies                                                                                                                                        | 134        |
| 6.4 | Bioprocess engineering data on specific marine enzymes                                                                                                                     | 138        |
| 6.5 | Conclusion                                                                                                                                                                 | 159        |
| 6.6 | Acknowledgement                                                                                                                                                            | 160        |
| 6.7 | References                                                                                                                                                                 | 160        |
| 7   | Diversity, population dynamics and biocatalytic potential of cultivable and non-cultivable bacterial communities of the saline ecosystems                           | 165 |
|     | Vikram H. Raval, Megha K. Purohit and Satya P. Singh                                                                                                                |            |
| 7.1 | Introduction                                                                                                                                                               | 166        |
| 7.2 | Marine habitats                                                                                                                                                            | 167        |
| 7.3 | Extremophiles                                                                                                                                                              | 170        |
| 7.4 | Culture-dependent approaches                                                                                                                                               | 174        |
| 7.5 | Culture independent and metagenomic approaches                                                                                                                             | 176        |
| 7.6 | Conclusion                                                                                                                                                                 | 179        |
| 7.7 | Acknowledgments                                                                                                                                                            | 179        |
| 7.8 | References                                                                                                                                                                 | 180        |
| 8   | Actinomycetes from marine habitats and their enzymatic potential                                                                                                    | 191 |
|     | Satya P. Singh, Jignasha Thumar, Sangeeta D. Gohel, Amit Sharma, Bhavtosh Kikani, Rushit Shukla and Kruti Dangar                                                    |            |
| 8.1 | Introduction                                                                                                                                                               | 192        |
| 8.2 | The marine habitats                                                                                                                                                        | 193        |
| 8.3 | The actinomycetes in the marine habitats                                                                                                                                   | 196        |
| 8.4 | The adaptations to grow at high salt concentrations                                                                                                                        | 197        |
| 8.5 | The alkaliphilic actinomycetes                                                                                                                                             | 198        |

|                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                   |            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 8.6                                                         | The microbial enzymes and the marine environment                                                                                                                  | 198        |
| 8.7                                                         | The enzymes from the marine actinomycetes                                                                                                                         | 199        |
| 8.8                                                         | Conclusion                                                                                                                                                        | 205        |
| 8.9                                                         | Acknowledgments                                                                                                                                                   | 205        |
| 8.10                                                        | References                                                                                                                                                        | 206        |
| PART 3 Bioprocesses and biocatalytic characteristics |                                                                                                                                                                   | 215 |
| 9                                                           | Three types of proteolytic enzymes in hepatopancreas of Japanese common squid Todarodes pacificus as studied by degradation of fish muscle proteins | 217 |
|                                                             | Kunihiko Konno and Yuanyong Tian                                                                                                                           |            |
| 9.1                                                         | Introduction                                                                                                                                                      | 218        |
| 9.2                                                         | Identification of the proteinases activities in squid liver                                                                                                       | 219        |
| 9.3                                                         | Effect of myosin denaturation on digestibility                                                                                                                    | 223        |
| 9.4                                                         | Identification of the cysteine-proteinase in squid liver                                                                                                          | 224        |
| 9.5                                                         | Enzyme that contributed to short peptide production                                                                                                               | 225        |
| 9.6                                                         | TCA-soluble peptide production                                                                                                                                    | 228        |
| 9.7                                                         | PCA-soluble peptide production from fish meat by direct addition of squid liver powder                                                                            | 230        |
| 9.8                                                         | References                                                                                                                                                        | 233        |
| 10                                                          | Stereoselective synthesis using marine enzymes                                                                                                             | 237 |
|                                                             | Dunming Zhu, Jianjiang Li and Qiaqing Wu                                                                                                                   |            |
| 10.1                                                        | Introduction                                                                                                                                                      | 237        |
| 10.2                                                        | Oxidation                                                                                                                                                         | 238        |
| 10.3                                                        | Reduction                                                                                                                                                         | 243        |
| 10.4                                                        | Reductive amination                                                                                                                                               | 250        |
| 10.5                                                        | Hydrolysis of epoxides                                                                                                                                            | 250        |
| 10.6                                                        | Hydrolysis                                                                                                                                                        | 252        |
| 10.7                                                        | Transglycosylation                                                                                                                                                | 252        |
| 10.8                                                        | Conclusion                                                                                                                                                        | 253        |
| 10.9                                                        | Acknowledgments                                                                                                                                                   | 253        |
| 10.10                                                       | References                                                                                                                                                        | 254        |
| 11                                                          | Tannase-source, biocatalytic characteristics, and bioprocesses for production                                                                              | 259 |
|                                                             | M. Chandrasekaran, and PS Beena                                                                                                                            |            |
| 11.1                                                        | Introduction                                                                                                                                                      | 260        |

|                                                                                           |            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 11.2 Applications of tannase                                                              | 264        |
| 11.3 Sources of tannase                                                                   | 270        |
| 11.4 Marine microbes as source of enzymes                                                 | 272        |
| 11.5 Biocatalytic characteristics of tannase                                              | 272        |
| 11.6 Bioprocesses for marine tannase production                                           | 280        |
| 11.7 Conclusion                                                                           | 286        |
| 11.8 References                                                                           | 287        |
| 12 Biosynthesis and degradation of bioactive imidazole-related dipeptides          | 295 |
| Shoji Yamada                                                                       |            |
| 12.1 Introduction                                                                         | 295        |
| 12.2 Bioactivity of imidazole-related dipeptides                                          | 296        |
| 12.3 Biosynthesis of imidazole-related dipeptides                                         | 305        |
| 12.4 Degradation of imidazole-related dipeptides                                          | 313        |
| 12.5 Possible biocatalytic applications of enzymes acting on imidazole-related dipeptides | 322        |
| 12.6 Conclusion                                                                           | 323        |
| 12.7 Acknowledgements                                                                     | 323        |
| 12.8 References                                                                           | 323        |
| 12.9 Further reading                                                                      | 331        |
| 13 Polysaccharide-degrading enzymes from herbivorous marine invertebrates          | 333 |
| Takao Ojima                                                                        |            |
| 13.1 Introduction                                                                         | 334        |
| 13.2 Alginate lyase                                                                       | 335        |
| 13.3 Mannanase                                                                            | 342        |
| 13.4 Laminarinase                                                                         | 349        |
| 13.5 Cellulase                                                                            | 354        |
| 13.6 Conclusion                                                                           | 359        |
| 13.7 References                                                                           | 360        |
| 14 Marine hydrocarbonoclastic bacteria                                             | 373 |
| Valeria Cafaro, Viviana Izzo, Eugenio Notomista, Alberto Di Donato                 |            |
| 14.1 Introduction                                                                         | 373        |
| 14.2 Marine hydrocarbonoclastic bacteria                                                  | 380        |

|                                                                                                                                                            |            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 14.3 Bioactive compounds from hydrocarbon-degrading microorganisms                                                                                         | 382        |
| 14.4 Enzymes of industrial interest from hydrocarbon-degrading microorganisms                                                                              | 389        |
| 14.5 References                                                                                                                                            | 394        |
| 15 Ligninolytic enzymes from marine-derived fungi: production and applications                                                                      | 403 |
| Lara Durães Sette and Rafaella Costa Bonugli Santos                                                                                                 |            |
| 15.1 Introduction                                                                                                                                          | 403        |
| 15.2 Production of ligninolytic enzymes by marine-derived fungi                                                                                            | 413        |
| 15.3 Biotechnological application of ligninolytic enzymes from marine-derived fungi                                                                        | 421        |
| 15.4 Conclusion                                                                                                                                            | 423        |
| 15.5 Acknowledgements                                                                                                                                      | 423        |
| 15.6 References                                                                                                                                            | 423        |
| 16 Polysaccharide-degrading enzymes from marine bacteria                                                                                            | 429 |
| Gurvan Michel and Mirjam Czjzek                                                                                                                     |            |
| 16.1 Introduction                                                                                                                                          | 430        |
| 16.2 Agar degrading polysaccharidases                                                                                                                      | 432        |
| 16.3 Carrageenan degrading polysaccharidases                                                                                                               | 437        |
| 16.4 Other marine bacterial polysaccharide degrading enzymes                                                                                               | 446        |
| 16.5 Specific/selected applications of marine polysaccharidases in modern biotechnology and global polysaccharide degrading systems in marine microbiology | 452        |
| 16.6 Conclusion                                                                                                                                            | 453        |
| 16.7 References                                                                                                                                            | 453        |
| 17 The biosynthesis of trehalose and sugar-glycerate compatible solutes in organisms that live in hot and saline environments                       | 465 |
| Joana Costa, Nuno Empadinhas, Susana Alarico, Ana Nobre, Luciana Albuquerque, Milton S. da Costa                                                    |            |
| 17.1 Introduction                                                                                                                                          | 466        |
| 17.2 Trehalose ubiquity in the tree of life and accumulation in thermophilic bacteria                                                                      | 470        |
| 17.3 Mannosylglycerate accumulation in scattered groups of the three domains of life                                                                       | 476        |

|       |                                                                                                                                    |     |
|-------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 17.4  | Wide distribution of glucosylglycerate in bacteria and archaea under salt stress in low nitrogen environments                      | 484 |
| 17.5  | The biotechnological and biomedical potential of marine enzymes for the synthesis of sugar-glycerate containing compatible solutes | 491 |
| 17.6  | Conclusion                                                                                                                         | 492 |
| 17.7  | Acknowledgements                                                                                                                   | 493 |
| 17.8  | References                                                                                                                         | 494 |
| Index | Scientific hits containing 'natural enzymes' from 1983 to 2011.                                                                    | 503 |
| 1.2   | Ecosystem services of the sea                                                                                                      | 8   |
| 1.3   | Total Economic Value of natural resources                                                                                          | 11  |
| 1.4   | Logistics of bioprospecting                                                                                                        | 12  |
| 2.1   | Twelve principles of green chemistry                                                                                               | 15  |
| 2.2   | Mnemonics of 'green' principles according to Lang et al. (2005) and Asfaw et al., (2011)                                           | 20  |
| 2.3   | Key kinetic parameters in enzyme catalysis                                                                                         | 29  |
| 2.4   | Fundamentals of biocatalysis – from discovery to innovation and application                                                        | 30  |
| 2.5   | Structure of poly(trimethylene terephthalate (PTT) or 3GT polymer                                                                  | 43  |
| 2.6   | Engineered ATP-dependent pathway for the synthesis of 1,3-propanediol from glucose in E. coli                               | 45  |
| 2.7   | 1,3-Propanediol (1G) ester from glucose                                                                                            | 46  |
| 2.8   | Transaminase-catalyzed synthesis of the antidiabetic drug Sitagliptin from its ketone substrate                                    | 47  |
| 2.9   | Chemical structure of natural statins and their derivative Simvastatin                                                             | 49  |
| 2.10  | Transesterase (LovD)-catalyzed final step in Simvastatin synthesis with 16dBS-MMP as a versatile acyl donor                        | 49  |
| 2.11  | Reduction of cellulase enzyme cost estimate                                                                                        | 54  |
| 5.1   | Approaches for integration: hunting for novel biocatalysts                                                                         | 112 |