

Contents

|                                                                                                          |            |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Preface                                                                                           | IX  |
| Volume 1                                                                                          |            |
| 1 Synthetic Biology: Implications and Uses                                                        | 1   |
| Sanjay Vashee, Mikkel A. Algire, Michael G. Montague, and Michele S. Garfinkel                    |            |
| Part I Biological Basis                                                                           | 33  |
| 2 The Emergence of the First Cells                                                                | 35  |
| Antoine Danchin                                                                                   |            |
| 3 Regulation of Gene Expression                                                                   | 61  |
| Anil Kumar, Sarika Garg and Neha Garg                                                             |            |
| 4 Interactome                                                                                     | 121 |
| Teresa M. Przytycka and Dong-Yeon Cho                                                             |            |
| 5 Microbiomes                                                                                     | 153 |
| Ramana Madupu, Yu-Hui Rogers, Doug Rusch, Jason Miller, Konstantinos Krampis, and Karen E. Nelson |            |
| Part II Modeling                                                                                  | 179 |
| 6 Dynamics of Biomolecular Networks                                                               | 181 |
| Emanuele Cozzo, Joaquín Sanz, and Yamir Moreno                                                    |            |
| 7 E-Cell: Computer Simulation of the Cell                                                         | 211 |
| Pawan K. Dhar, Kouichi Takahashi, Yoichi Nakayama, and Masaru Tomita                              |            |
| 8 SynBioSS Designer Modeling Suite                                                                | 229 |
| Konstantinos Biliouris, Emma Weeding, and Yiannis N. Kaznessis                                    |            |

|                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |     |
|-----------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Part III | Modular Parts and Circuits                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 247 |
| 9        | Synthetic Gene CircuitsBarbara Jusiak, Ramiz Daniel, Fahim Farzadfard, Lior Nissim, Oliver Purcell, Jacob Rubens and Timothy K. Lu                                                                                                             | 249 |
| 10       | DNA Origami NanorobotsIdo Bachelet                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 305 |
| 11       | RNAi Synthetic Logic Circuits for Sensing, Information Processing, and ActuationZhen Xie, Liliana Wroblewska, and Ron Weiss                                                                                                                    | 333 |
| 12       | Synthetic Hybrid BiosensorsApoorv Shanker, Kangwon Lee, and Jinsang Kim                                                                                                                                                                        | 357 |
| 13       | Synthetic Biology in Metabolic Engineering: From Complex Biochemical Pathways to Compartmentalized Metabolic Processes—a Vitamin ConnectionEvelyn Deery, Stefanie Frank, Andrew Lawrence, Simon Moore, Susanne Schroeder, and Martin J. Warren | 393 |
| Volume 2 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |     |
| Part IV  | Synthetic Genomes                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 441 |
| 14       | The Minimal Gene-Set MachineryRosario Gil                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 443 |
| 15       | Production of Mitochondrial Genome and Chromosomal DNA Segments Highly Engineered for Use in Mouse Genetics by a Bacillus subtilis-Based BGM Vector SystemMitsuhiro Itaya                                                               | 479 |
| 16       | Synthetic Genetic Polymers Functioning to Store and Propagate Information by Genetic Alphabet ExpansionIchiro Hirao                                                                                                                            | 505 |
| Part V   | Diseases and Therapeutics                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 521 |
| 17       | Synthetic Biology Approaches for Regenerative MedicineElise Cachat, Kim C. Martin, and Jamie A. Davies                                                                                                                                         | 523 |
| 18       | The Synthetic Biology Approach to Stem Cells and Regenerative MedicineBoon Chin Heng, and Martin Fussenegger                                                                                                                                   | 541 |
| 19       | Synthetic Biology Approaches to Cell TherapySung-Ho Paek and Warren C. Ruder                                                                                                                                                                   | 559 |

|                                                                                                                                                    |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 20 Synthetic Biology Approaches for Vaccine Development                                                                                     | 589 |
| Sam H. Shen, Bruce Futcher, Chen Yang, and Eckard Wimmer                                                                                    |     |
| Part VI Chemicals Production                                                                                                                | 617 |
| 21 Metabolic Engineering for the Production of Diols                                                                                        | 619 |
| Katarzyna Leja, Dorota Samul, Piotr Kubiak, Agnieszka Drożdżyńska, Alicja Kośmider, Wojciech Juzwa, Mariusz Lesiecki, and Katarzyna Czaczuk |     |
| 22 Synthetic Biology in Biofuels Production                                                                                                 | 665 |
| Rahul Singh, Anu Jose Mattam, Pavan Jutur, and Syed Shams Yazdani                                                                           |     |
| 23 Synthetic Biology of Antibiotic Production                                                                                               | 699 |
| Eriko Takano and Rainer Breiting                                                                                                            |     |
| Index                                                                                                                                       | 723 |