

Birds of South-East Asia

SECOND EDITION

Birds of South-East Asia was first published in 2000 and is the definitive guide to the birds of this region. Since then, due to discoveries, vagrants and new understandings in taxonomy, the region's bird list has increased by 76 species. This fully updated new edition covers all of these additions and has revised artwork and text for many of the species included in the original work.

■ A complete field and reference guide to Myanmar (Burma), Thailand, Peninsular Malaysia, Singapore, Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam

■ 120 colour plates covering every major plumage variation

■ Covers all 1,327 species in unprecedented detail

■ Up-to-date text covers identification, voice, habitat, range and status, and breeding of all the species and distinctive subspecies of the region

"This guide is a magnificent achievement, regionally without peer, and clearly the essential guide for future visitors to the region." –
