

“Lynn Barber is the only woman to have seen over 700 species of birds in North America in a calendar year! Her personal experience and knowledge are evident in her new book, Birds in Trouble. These are not just birds with some official classification. They are those with uncertain futures, whether it be population decline or unsustainable circumstances. Birds in Trouble is positive in that it offers readers many things they can do to help. It’s a great read and an important resource!”

—GREG MILLER, bird consultant for the movie The Big Year
