

Contents

About the Authors	iii
Taking Theory into Practice	x
Preface	xii

1	The Culturally Intentional Counselor or Therapist: Introduction and Overview	1
	Chapter Goals	1
	Relativity: Our Stories about Reality Depend on Our Perspectives	2
	Spirituality and Religion	8
	The Community Genogram: A Practice Strategy	9
	Cultural Intentionality	14
	The Scientist-Practitioner	16
	Ethics and the Counseling and Psychotherapy Process	16
	Taking Theory into Practice	19

PART I Foundational Theories and Skills for Effective Counseling and Therapy 21

2	The Empathic Attitude: Individual, Family, and Culture	23
	Chapter Goals	23
	Individual, Family, and Cultural Empathy	24
	The Language of Multicultural Identity	32
	The Multicultural Cube	34
	Empathy, the Family, and Multicultural Issues	38
	The Family Genogram or Chart	41
	Toward Multicultural Empathy and Competence	44
	Using Individual, Family, and Multicultural Empathy in the Interview	46

3 Conducting an Intentional Interview: Theory, Skills, Decisions, and Solutions 50

Chapter Goals	50
The Microskills and Decisional Counseling Worldview	51
Multicultural Issues, Microskills, and Decisional Counseling	54
The Microskills Approach: The Pragmatics of Constructivism	55
Different Skill Patterns for Different Theories	72
Decisional Counseling: Pragmatism in Action	74
Microskills and Brief Solution-Oriented Counseling and Therapy	81
Limitations and Practical Implications of the Decisional and Microskills Approach	86

4 Developmental Counseling and Therapy: Individual and Family Therapy 89

Sandra A. Rigazio-DiGilio, Allen E. Ivey, Mary Bradford Ivey, Lynn Simek-Morgan

Chapter Goals	89
A Figure to Figure: What Is Your Perspective?	90
The DCT Postmodern Worldview	90
Central DCT Constructs of Integrating Skills and Theory	94
DCT in Applied Practice	105
Developing an Integrated Assessment and Treatment Plan	110
Systemic Cognitive-Developmental Therapy and Family Systems	114
Using SCDT in Applied Practice	117
Developing a Generalized Plan for Treatment	125
Limitations and Practical Implications of an Integrative Approach to Psychotherapy	125

PART II Multicultural Counseling and Therapy: The Fourth Force 131

5 Multicultural Counseling and Therapy I: Metatheory—Taking Theory into Practice 133

Harold E. Cheatham, Allen E. Ivey, Mary Bradford Ivey, Paul B. Pedersen, Sandra A. Rigazio-DiGilio, Lynn Simek-Morgan, Derald Wing Sue

Chapter Goals	133
Approaches to Multicultural Counseling and Therapy	134

MCT as Metatheory	137
The Multiple Contexts and Experiences of MCT	147
Cultural Identity Development Theory	161
Advantages and Limitations of MCT	165

6 Multicultural Counseling and Therapy II: Integrative Practice

170

Harold E. Cheatham, Allen E. Ivey, Mary Bradford Ivey,
Paul B. Pedersen, Sandra A. Rigazio-DiGilio, Lynn Simek-Morgan,
Derald Wing Sue

Chapter Goals	170
Coconstructing Culturally Appropriate Techniques and Strategies	171
Feminist Therapy	172
Applying MCT with Culturally Different Clients	176
MCT Practice and Multiple Helping Roles	182
Family Therapy and Multicultural Issues	186
Traditional Healing	187
The Liberation of Consciousness: Self-in-Relation	192
Adapting Existing Theories, Skills, and Strategies to the MCT Counseling Session	201
Limitations and Practical Implications of MCT	203

PART III Historical Theories of Counseling and Psychotherapy: The First, Second, and Third Forces

207

7 Psychodynamic Counseling and Therapy I: Conception and Theory

209

Chapter Goals	209
The Psychodynamic Frame of Reference	210
Multicultural Issues and the Psychodynamic Tradition	212
Central Constructs of Psychodynamic Theory	213
Object Relations Theory	221
The Family Unconscious and Multicultural Psychodynamic Theory	224
Using Psychodynamic Theory for Case Conceptualization	228
Using Psychodynamic Theory for Treatment of Personality Style/Disorder	235
Limitations and Practical Implications of Psychodynamic Approaches	236

8 Psychodynamic Counseling and Therapy II: Applications for Practice 242

Chapter Goals	242
Free Association: The Central Strategy	243
Interpretation	248
Dream Analysis	249
Using Regression Techniques to Reexperience Past Trauma	254
Analysis of Resistance	257
Analysis of Transference and Countertransference	258
Projective Identification	259
Treating the Family/Multicultural Unconscious	261
Limitations and Practical Implications of Psychodynamic Methods	262

9 Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy and Counseling I: Behavioral Foundations 266

Chapter Goals	266
The Cognitive-Behavioral Frame of Reference	267
The Multicultural Approach and Cognitive-Behavioral Issues	270
Meichenbaum's Construction of Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy	271
Applied Behavioral Analysis: Foundation of Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy	276
Cognitive-Behavioral Treatment Techniques	281
Limitations and Practical Implications of Practicing Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy	306

10 Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy and Counseling II: Cognitive and Integrative Approaches 310

Chapter Goals	310
The Cognitive Worldview and Its Relation to Cognitive-Behavioral Tradition	311
Multicultural Issues in Cognitive Therapy	312
Albert Ellis and Rational-Emotive Behavior Therapy	313
Aaron Beck and Cognitive Therapy	323
William Glasser and Reality Therapy	335
Arnold Lazarus and the Multimodal Approach	342
Limitations and Practical Implications of Cognitive-Behavioral Counseling and Therapy	345

11	The Existential-Humanistic Tradition I: Existential-Humanistic Theory and Person-Centered Theory and Practice	349
	Chapter Goals	349
	The Existential-Humanistic Frame of Reference	350
	The Rogerian Revolution	353
	Case Examples from Three Periods of Rogers's Work	356
	Clemmont Vontress: Searching for Life's Meaning across Cultures	369
	Limitations and Practical Implications of the Existential-Humanistic Tradition	372
12	The Existential-Humanistic Tradition II: Logotherapy and Experiential Gestalt Therapy	379
	Chapter Goals	379
	Implementing the Existential-Humanistic Tradition	379
	Viktor Frankl and Logotherapy	380
	Fritz Perls and Gestalt Therapy	391
	Limitations and Practical Implications of the Existential-Humanistic Tradition	401
13	Toward Integrated Counseling and Psychotherapy	404
	Chapter Goals	404
	Becoming a Samurai	404
	The Search for the "Best" Theory	405
	A Summary of the Four Major Theoretical Forces of Counseling and Psychotherapy	408
	Integrating Multiple Approaches with a Client or Family	411
	Constructing Your Own View or Theory of Counseling and Therapy	414
	Name Index	421
	Subject Index	425