

Contents

|                                                                                                                                                             |         |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| List of contributors                                                                                                                                 | page vi |
| Preface                                                                                                                                              | vii     |
| 1 The evolution of ecosystem ecologyDavid G. Raffaelli and Christopher L. J. Frid                                                                | 1       |
| 2 Linking population, community and ecosystem ecology withinmainstream ecologyAndy Fenton and Matthew Spencer                                | 19      |
| 3 Thermodynamic approaches to ecosystem behaviour: fundamentalprinciples with case studies from forest succession and managementPaul C. Stoy | 40      |
| 4 Ecosystem healthPiran C. L. White, James C. R. Smart, Anna R. Renwick andDavid G. Raffaelli                                               | 65      |
| 5 Interdisciplinarity in ecosystems research: developing socialrobustness in environmental scienceKevin Edson Jones and Odette A. L. Paramor | 94      |
| 6 The links between biodiversity, ecosystem services and humanwell-beingRoy Haines-Young and Marion Potschin                                 | 110     |
| 7 Ecosystem ecology and environmental managementChristopher L. J. Frid and David G. Raffaelli                                                    | 140     |
| Index                                                                                                                                                | 159     |