

Contents

Volume I

Series Editor's Preface	x
Elinor Shaffer
Acknowledgements	xvi
List of Contributors	xix
Abbreviations	xxv
Timeline: European Reception of Charles Darwin	xxvi
Compiled by Thomas F. Glick and Eve-Marie Engels
Editors' Introduction	1
Eve-Marie Engels and Thomas F. Glick
1 Darwin's Philosophical Revolution: Evolutionary Naturalism and First Reactions to his Theory	23
Eve-Marie Engels
2 Correspondence as a Medium of Reception and Appropriation	54
Paul White
3 Nation and Religion: The Debate about Darwinism in Ireland	66
Greta Jones
4 Under Darwin's Banner: Ernst Haeckel, Carl Gegenbaur and Evolutionary Morphology	79
Mario A. Di Gregorio
5 Only 'Dreams from an Afternoon Nap'? Darwin's Theory of Evolution and the Foundation of Biological Anthropology in Germany 1860–75	98
Dirk Backenköhler
6 Darwin's Relevance for Nineteenth-Century Physics and Physicists: A Comparative Study	116
Helmut Pulte
7 Darwinism in Finland	135
Anto Leikola

8	Darwinizing the Danes, 1859–1909 Peter C. Kjærgaard, Niels Henrik Gregersen and Hans Henrik Hjermitsev	146
9	The Introduction, Interpretation and Dissemination of Darwinism in Norway during the period 1860–90 Thore Lie	156
10	Darwin on Dutch Soil: The Early Reception of his Ideas in the Netherlands Bart Leeuwenburgh and Janneke van der Heide	175
11	'Foggy and Contradictory': Evolutionary Theory in Belgium, 1859–1945 Raf de Bont	188
12	Between Science and Ideology: The Reception of Darwin and Darwinism in the Czech Lands, 1859–1959 Tomáš Hermann and Michal Šimůnek	199
13	Descent versus Extinction: The Reception of Darwinism in Estonia Ken Kalling and Erki Tammiksaar	217
14	The Ideas of Charles Darwin in Lithuania: Contributions by Emigrant Authors during the Years of Occupation Vincas Būda and Alina Irena Šveistytė	230
15	Struggle for or against Participation? How Darwinism Came to Partitioned Poland in the 1860s and early 1870s Daniel Schümann	244
16	The Echo of Darwin in Mendel's Brno Vítězslav Orel and Margaret H. Peaslee	259
	Bibliography (Volume I)	269
	Volume II
	Abbreviations	x
17	The Interminable Decline of Lamarckism in France Patrick Tort. Translated by Matthew Cobb	329
18	Darwin in a French Dress: Translating, Publishing and Supporting Darwin in Nineteenth-Century France Joy Harvey	354

19	Many Darwinisms by Many Names: Darwinism and Nature in the Kingdoms of Italy	375
	Rainer Brömer
20	Darwinism and Paleontology: Reception and Diffusion of the Theory of Evolution in Spain	386
	Francisco Pelayo
21	Darwin in Catalunya: From Catholic Intransigence to the Marketing of Darwin's Image	400
	Agustí Camós
22	Darwin and the Vatican: The Reception of Evolutionary Theories	413
	Mariano Artigas, Thomas E. Glick and Rafael A. Martínez
23	The Scientific Reception of Darwin's Work in Nineteenth-Century Hungary	430
	Sándor Soós
24	The Reception of Darwin in Nineteenth-Century Hungarian Society	441
	Katalin Mund
25	Notes on the Reception of Darwin's Theory in Romania	463
	Victoria Tatole
26	The Eclipse and Renaissance of Darwinism in German Biology (1900–1950)	480
	Thomas Junker
27	The Reception of Darwin's Theory of Evolution in Russia: 1920s to 1940s	502
	Yasha Gall and Mikhail B. Konashev
28	Darwinism and Dialectical Materialism in Soviet Russia	522
	Eduard I. Kolchinsky
29	Miquel Crusafont, Teilhard de Chardin and the Reception of the Synthetic Theory in Spain	553
	Thomas E. Glick
	Bibliography (Volume II)	569
	Index (Volumes I and II)	613