

CONTENTS

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Preface                                                                                                                                                                                                               | v   |
| 1. Breast Cancer MicroRNAs: Signaling Networks and Clinical Applications                                                                                                                                              | 1   |
| Gabriel Eades, Yuan Yao and Qun Zhou                                                                                                                                                                                         |            |
| 2. MicroRNAs in Breast Cancer Development                                                                                                                                                                             | 44  |
| Mei Yang, Zhe Xu, Yuxin Zhang and Chenfang Zhang                                                                                                                                                                             |            |
| 3. MicroRNAs Controlling Invasion and Metastasis in Breast Cancer                                                                                                                                                     | 64  |
| César López-Camarillo, Laurence A. Marchat and José Ali Flores-Perez                                                                                                                                                         |            |
| 4. Endometrial Cancer and MicroRNAs                                                                                                                                                                                   | 80  |
| Jaime Snowdon and Harriet Feilotter                                                                                                                                                                                          |            |
| 5. MicroRNAs in Cervical Cancer: Evidences of a miRNA De-regulation Caused by HPV                                                                                                                                     | 105 |
| Carlos Pérez-Plasencia, Nadia Jacobo-Herrera, Carlos Barba-Ostria, Rosa Alvarez-Gómez, David Cantú-De León, Jorge Fernández-Retana, Elena Arechaga-Ocampo, Luis A. Herrera, César López-Camarillo and Oscar Peralta-Zaragoza |            |
| 6. MicroRNAs in Prostate Cancer                                                                                                                                                                                       | 128 |
| Aya Misawa, Ken-ichi Takayama and Satoshi Inoue                                                                                                                                                                              |            |
| 7. MicroRNA Deregulations in Gastric Cancer                                                                                                                                                                           | 156 |
| Jiayi Yao, Tusheng Song and Chen Huang                                                                                                                                                                                       |            |
| 8. MicroRNAs in Colorectal Cancer                                                                                                                                                                                     | 177 |
| K. Valencia, E. Bandres and J. Garcia-Foncillas                                                                                                                                                                              |            |

|                                                                                                                                                                                          |            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 9. MicroRNAs in Lung Cancer: From Genomics to Clinical Applications                                                                                                               | 220 |
| Elena Arechaga-Ocampo, Jose Diaz-Chavez, Cesar Lopez-Camarillo, Eduardo Lopez-Urrutia, Claudia H. Gonzalez de la Rosa, Carlos Perez-Plasencia, Yamilet Noriega Reyes and Luis A. Herrera |            |
| 10. MicroRNAs in Melanoma                                                                                                                                                         | 252 |
| Federica Felicetti, Maria Cristina Errico, Gianfranco Mattia, Nadia Felli and Alessandra Carè                                                                                            |            |
| 11. MicroRNAs in Medulloblastoma                                                                                                                                                  | 278 |
| Tarek Shalaby, Martin Baumgartner, Giulio Fiaschetti and Michael A. Grotzer                                                                                                              |            |
| 12. Extracellular MicroRNAs as Potential Biomarkers and Therapeutic Tools in Cancer                                                                                               | 308 |
| Muriel Thirion and Takahiro Ochiya                                                                                                                                                       |            |
| 13. MicroRNAs as Potential Therapeutic Targets in Cancer                                                                                                                          | 333 |
| Ailbhe M. McDermott, Helen M. Heneghan, Nicola Miller and Michael J. Kerin                                                                                                               |            |
| 14. Regulation of MicroRNAs for Potential Cancer Therapeutics: The Paradigm Shift from Pathways to Perturbation of Gene Regulatory Networks                                       | 364 |
| Wei Wu, Wei Cao and Jennifer A. Chan                                                                                                                                                     |            |
| 15. Systems and Network Biology in MicroRNA based Personalized Medicine                                                                                                           | 387 |
| Asfar S. Azmi, Bin Bao, Philip A. Philip, Ramzi M. Mohammad and Fazlul H. Sarkar                                                                                                         |            |
| Index                                                                                                                                                                             | 405 |
| Color Plate Section                                                                                                                                                               | 407 |