

Contents

Introduction 1

Edna Einsiedel

Part 1

THE FINANCIAL PIPELINE

- 1 The challenge of creating, protecting
& exploiting networked knowledge 7
Peter W. B. Phillips
- 2 From bank to bench to pharmacy shelf:
Biotechnology & the culture of finance 33
Usher Fleising & Charles Mather

Part 2

POLICIES AND PUBLICS

- 3 Agricultural biotechnology in Europe
at the crossroads 49
Helge Torgersen
- 4 Angles of vision: Stakeholders & human embryonic stem cell policy development 61
Robin Downey, Rose Geransar, & Edna Einsiedel

Part 3

FROM PUBLIC PERCEPTION TO PUBLIC PARTICIPATION: CONSUMER CHOICE & DECISION-MAKING

- 5 Involving communities:
A matter of trust & communication 87
Béatrice Godard
- 6 Canadian attitudes to genetically modified food 99
Michelle Veeman, Wiktor Adamowicz, Wuyang Hu, & Anne Hünнемeyer

Part 4

FRAMING THE GENE: THE MEDIA SPHERE

- 7 Media representations of genetic research 117
Tania M. Bubela & Timothy Caulfield
- 8 Lay people actively process messages about genetics 131
Celeste M. Condit
- 9 Telling technological tales:
The media & the evolution of biotechnology 143
Edna Einsiedel

Part 5

SECOND THOUGHTS: ETHICAL ISSUES

- 10 Ethical analysis of representation in the governance of biotechnology 157
Michael M. Burgess
- 11 The regulation of animal biotechnology:
At the crossroads of law & ethics 173
Lyne Létourneau
- 12 Second thoughts on biobanks:
The Icelandic experience 193
Gardar Arnason

Part 6

REFLECTIONS BEYOND THE HERE & NOW

- 13 In search of nanoscale economics:
Intellectual property & nano-mercantilism in the pre-assembler & assembler stages of nanotechnology 207
Michael D. Mehta & Linda Goldenberg
- 14 Inhuman, superhuman, or posthuman?
Images of genetic futures 225
Jon Turney

Part 7

CONCLUSIONS

- 15 The future of genomics 239
Peter W. B. Phillips and Edna Einsiedel

Contributors 249

Index 257