

Preface

With all optimistic view, we admit that we know very little of the whole nature and its governing. We are still trying to understand nature. We are still trying to understand. We are trying to decipher the codes used for storing various information with the advanced technology of Biological sciences i.e. Biotechnology and Biochemistry, which have developed since last 50 years.

This book has been designed to incorporate contributors of several Indian scientists of admirable skill and standing in India who are participated into the advancement of this subject.

I would like to thank all the contributors for their contributions into this volume.

Views expressed in the contributions are exclusively those of the authors and responsibilities do not lie on the editors and the publisher.

Last but not the least; I take the privilege to admiring the Managing Director of Daya Publishing House, Mr. Anil. K. Mittal thankfully for completing this publication in a hot hurry.

Dr. Chiranjib Chakraborty